What To Expect During Your Appointment
At your appointment the dietitian will obtain a diet history and assist you in becoming aware of your eating habits so you can make healthful changes.

How To Prepare For Your Appointment
In order for your time with the dietitian to be spent effectively, it is important that you prepare a food diary a few days in advance. Typical entries may include:

Essential:
- Time of day
- The food description & amount eaten

Valuable:
- Time spent eating
- Location of eating
- Other activities done while eating
- Mood at the time of eating
- Level of hunger at the time of eating

Why Keep A Food Diary?
Food diaries are essential to better understanding your eating habits. They allow you to see what kinds of foods you eat, the quantity you eat and the nutritional value of the food. Food diaries also help you to understand what triggers your eating so you can develop a strategy to change unhealthy habits and avoid the triggers.
